INCIDENT MANAGEMENT SITUATION REPORT FRIDAY, MARCH 14, 1997 - 1000 MST NATIONAL PREPAREDNESS LEVEL I

CURRENT SITUATION: Minor fire activity was reported in the Southern Area. Initial attack increased in the Southwest Area.

OUTLOOK: A cold front from Tennessee to Louisiana will push across the region this morning and off the Atlantic coast on Saturday. Showers, thunderstorms and gusty winds will occur ahead of the front. Dry, colder and breezy conditions will follow as high pressure builds eastward. Another storm system developing over the central plains on Monday will push toward the Atlantic coast through Thursday bringing a repeat of showers, thunderstorms and gusty winds. Warmer weather will take place ahead of this next system with drier and cooler weather behind it. High temperatures in most areas Friday through Sunday will be 40's in the north to 60's in the south. By Monday high temperatures will warm to 50's in the north to 70's in the south. High temperatures across Florida will be in the upper 70's to mid 80's through Saturday then cooling into the 70's on Sunday and Monday.
