Predictive Services Discussion: A storm system moving through the northern Rockies will bring snow and coastal rain from Oregon and Washington to western Montana and Wyoming. A deepening trough along the front range of the Rockies will produce gusty winds and low relative humidity over the central Plains. Scattered showers and thunderstorms will develop ahead of a cold front moving through New Mexico and west Texas. High pressure will keep fair and cool conditions across most of the eastern half of the U.S. For the weekend, a cold front will bring rain and snow to the central and eastern U.S. as high pressure dominates the West.

Today's discussion is from the NEW Fireline Leadership Category.

Leaders Intent

Introduction:

In fast-moving, dynamic situations, top-level decision makers cannot always incorporate new information into a formal planning process and redirect people to action within a reasonable timeframe.

We provide leader's intent so people closest to the scene of action can adapt plans and exercise initiative to accomplish the objective when unanticipated opportunities arise or when the original plan no longer suffices.

Leaders' intent is a crucial element of effective operations because it reduces internal friction and empowers subordinates – even when chaotic conditions prevent the chain of command from communicating effectively.

- Leader's intent is a clear, concise statement about what people must do to succeed in their assignments. It delineates three essential components:
 - Task - what is the objective or goal of the assignment?
 - Purpose – why the assignment needs to be done.
 - End state – how the situation should look when the assignment is successfully completed.
- Within the framework of the defined end state, leaders can develop plans that include incident objectives, priorities, strategies, trigger points, and contingency plans.

Discussion Points

- How were you most recently provided leader's intent?
- Describe a situation where leader's intent was utilized to adapt and achieve the desired end state.
- Describe a situation where leader's intent was not clear.
- Discuss how to gain leaders intent if it is not initially provided.
