Predictive Services Discussion:. Critical fire weather conditions are expected across Oklahoma and Kansas as a low pressure area moves east out of the Rockies. Monsoonal moisture will briefly be drawn northward into central Texas as the system passes. In the West, cooler than average conditions will continue as a weakened upper level trough remains over the western third of the country. Scattered storms will be possible across Western Montana and Idaho. Showers will continue across New England as a low pressure area remains stalled over the area. In Alaska, cooler and wetter than average conditions will continue as a low pressure area remains positioned over the Seward Peninsula. Breezy westerly winds are expected across the southwestern Interior.

This Week of Remembrance is dedicated to all those who have fallen in the line of duty and is intended to serve as an opportunity to renew our commitment to the health, wellness, and safety of wildland firefighters.

There is no question that the loss of firefighters' lives deeply affects us all. When we realize how many tragic events have happened, we need to ask ourselves are we learning anything from the past? Are we getting better? Are we safer? Has anything changed?

> The purpose of this week is to honor our fallen firefighters by making a commitment that we will apply the lessons we have learned every day, on every fireline we walk, and with every decision we make.

This week use the materials provided in these safety messages as a foundation for respectful dialogue and discussion. Apply these lessons to yourself, your crew, your team, and your unit.
Ask yourself this: How can these lessons help change my behavior?
Today is dedicated to the Granite Mountain Hotshots.

Never forgotten.

Consider making time today to watch the RT-130, Wildland Fire Safety Training Annual Refresher (WFSTAR) module on the Yarnell Hill Fire, https://www.nwcg.gov/publications/training-courses/rt-130/case-studies/cs214, and discuss the questions as a crew.
