Predictive Services Discussion: Dry and windy conditions will develop across much of the Southwest and portions of the Great Basin, southern California, Western Slope of Colorado, and the High Plains ahead of an upper low moving southeast over Pacific Northwest and Northern Rockies. Rain and snow will spread from the Pacific Northwest into Wyoming and portions of the northern High Plains with the greatest chances of precipitation in the Washington Cascades and Northern Rockies. The surface cyclone in the Upper Midwest will begin to weaken, but rain and thunderstorms are expected from the central Gulf Coast into the Great Lakes ahead of a cold front and near the low.

Experience and Wisdom

Leadership
A Special Edition from
Wildland Fire Lessons Learned Center

Understanding the difference between Experience and Wisdom

"Everyone has experience. Wisdom comes from reflection, admitting and owning mistakes, forgiving yourself, learning and stepping back up to the plate for another swing."
What Does It Mean to be a Quiet Professional? by Rob Shaul.

Every fire, every shift, every season, we gain experience.
What can you do individually to turn your experience into wisdom?
What can your crew do to turn collective experience into group wisdom?
Consider these tools in your discussion:

- After Action Reviews
- Tactical Decision Games
- Incident Reviews (Facilitated Learning Analysis, Rapid Lesson Sharing, etc.)

Experience is good, but it is not wisdom. Experience must be converted into wisdom.
Reflect on a recent experience, a shift, an assignment, or a season. What actions will you take to transform that experience into wisdom?
ACTION: Use these prompts for group discussion:

- How can experience end up being a bad thing?
- What is the difference between experience, wisdom, and luck?
- How does your crew pass on wisdom?
- What can you or your crew do to turn experience into wisdom?
- What can prevent you and your crew from turning experience into wisdom?
